

2017 Cultural Awareness Workshop

Teachers and Principals, if you were recently hired and just started your new position you may want to consider attending this workshop. The Department of Education in partnership with the Nunavut Teachers' Association will be offering a Cultural Awareness workshop.

Who's invited?

All teachers and Principals are eligible to apply to attend this workshop. However, there are only 50 spots available, and priority will be given to new teachers that just started their position in August/September followed by teachers in their second and third year.

When is the workshop?

February 14-16th, 2017 during Professional Development (PD) week.

Where is the workshop?

Frobisher Inn, Iqaluit, Nunavut

Is there a cost?

If you are accepted into the workshop, teachers must submit an individual school based PD week application through the PD Database. Flights, accommodations and cost above the PD allotment will be covered by the Department of Education.

How do I register?

1. Fill out a registration form and Photo consent form
2. If accepted, apply using the Individual PD week application in the PD Database.
3. Deadline: October 31, 2016

What's on the agenda?

Day 1-Feb 14:

Residential School Awareness

Day 2- Feb 15:

Indigenous Cultural Competency and Reconciliation

Day 3- Feb 16:

Moving Knowledge into Instructional Practice

Contact:

For more information please contact Helen Hoang, Nunavut Teacher Induction Program Coordinator
Tel: 975-5689 EST
Email: hhoang@gov.nu.ca